

OHRAB ACHIEVEMENT AWARD WINNERS

Previous OHRAB Archives Achievement Award Winners

2023

The Bay Village Historical Society for its project to conserve and increase access to the portraits and photographs in its Rose Hill Museum.

2022

The Archives and Special Collections of University Libraries at The University of Akron for its efforts in support of the The University of Akron's sesquicentennial anniversary amidst the upheaval of the pandemic.

2021

The Muskingum County Records Center for its project to scan, index, and make available the historic records of the Muskingum County Clerk of Courts Office.

2020

The Clark County Historical Society for their fortitude in saving the Society's collections from flood damage and for their resulting commitment to teaching others about the necessity of disaster planning and preparedness.

The Toledo Lucas County Public Library for their continuing efforts to preserve their vast architectural records collection and to make it accessible to all through the Architecture of Northwest Ohio digital library.

2019

The City of Westlake Council Office for its dedication to preserving the history and the records of the City of Westlake and making them available to its citizens and future generations.

The Lakewood Historical Society for the creation of the Haber Family Center for History, where the Society's archival collections are now preserved and available to all.

2018

Licking County Records Center and Archives for its commitment to expanding access to Ohio's public records through its outreach activities and the development of its new records center facility.

Warren County Records Center and Archives for its work furthering the digital accessibility of Ohio records by processing, indexing, digitizing, and uploading historic Warren County records to its website.

Nominees for the Achievement Award represented small towns and large cities; public and private institutions; universities, historical societies, and records centers; and a full range of historic records—maps, photographs, marriage, birth, death, and estate records, and more. Common to all their successes were collaboration, determination, creativity, and a passionate commitment to the preservation and expanded use of Ohio's historic records. Clearly, Ohio's historic records community is achieving admirable results.

More information on the award and previous winners at <http://www.ohrab.org> or contact Awards Committee Chair Tina Ratcliff at ratcliff@mcoho.org.